The U.S. Senate voted last night to acquit the President of both Articles of Impeachment.

“Today I am sad and angry, but unsurprised. It is the job of our Representatives to ensure each of the three branches of government remain co-equal. Our system of government was purposefully set up to prevent abusing power for personal gain and to provide checks and balances.” Williams said. “I am disappointed in the Republican Representatives who voted to protect their own power rather than holding the President accountable for his actions.

Today’s “Victory Speech” by President Trump is further evidence that he is more concerned with curating his own golden image than fighting for the American people. Time and time again I see this Administration resort to hurtful rhetoric, false promises, and lies rather than fighting to restore the dignity of the American worker.

My opponent has given this Administration a free pass, no matter what they do, at the detriment of people here in Arkansas’s Third District.

Today, as an American citizen who believes in truth, justice, and protecting the welfare of the people of this nation, I am grieving for the utter lack of moral clarity and decency in Washington.”
